

To Market, to Market

Ask your students to look closely at the large illustration on page 10 of One Hen: How One Small Loan Made a Big Difference. Then have them identify the foods and other goods depicted in Kojo's marketplace. Divide the students into groups, and ask each group to create an illustration of the items available in their own local markets. Provide magazines or newspaper supplements they can use to make a collage or mixed media piece.

Once your students have completed their illustrations, start a class discussion about the similarities and differences between the stores in North America and those in Kojo's community.

Post
Reading